

First Performance Global Expands Offering with Facebook Bots Messaging

ATLANTA – May 30, 2017 – First Performance Global today announced its new Facebook Messenger bot offering, as an enhanced capability on their innovative card platform. The platform captures card transaction data in real-time and enables card issuers to add value to their payment network by delivering card controls, real-time alerts, and customer self-service capabilities across multiple digital channels including Facebook.

The First Performance Facebook bot enables financial institutions to further engage and deliver value-added capabilities to their customers through the digital channel of choice. Messenger bots use artificial intelligence (AI) technology that provides a card issuer's customer with self service capabilities, like checking balances, turning cards on and off, or enabling access for a specific country they may be traveling to as well as restricting transaction access. Securely receiving real-time messaging can all be accomplished without leaving the Messenger app.

"Messenger bots enable cardholders to interact and manage all of their payment cards through this social media channel – without having to access an App or login to a website, said Bill Hernandez, CEO with First Performance Global. "It drives customer convenience and allows them to use their channel of preference. For card issuers, it delivers a convenient and innovative new access channel for their customers, and a potential new acquisition and revenue stream."
